The sound of love is beautiful,
The sound of life is noise
So the sound of friends
Who live and love is Nothing but the sound of ...

Gwen Kline

BEAUTIFUL NOISE

A modern poet compared life to a symphony. He felt that the harmony of love and the steady beat of time creates the most beautiful symphony known to man. Many times the orchestra of people play perfectly in tune, but most of the sound that issues forth is pure noise. Even so, when the combination of people, nature, love, and time are experienced the noise is too beautiful to express in words. This is particularly true of Martin College where the symphony plays differently every day. Yet the beauty is not in the separate parts of life, but in the complete atmosphere of the campus.

Lucy Gebhart

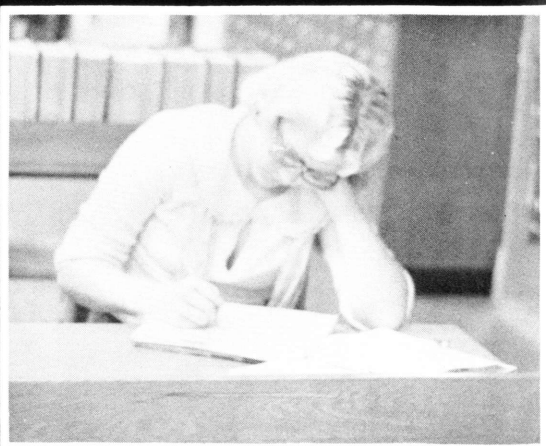

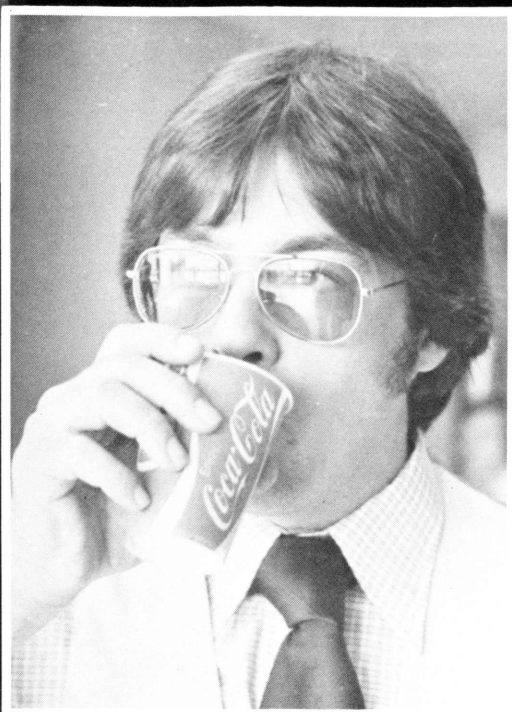

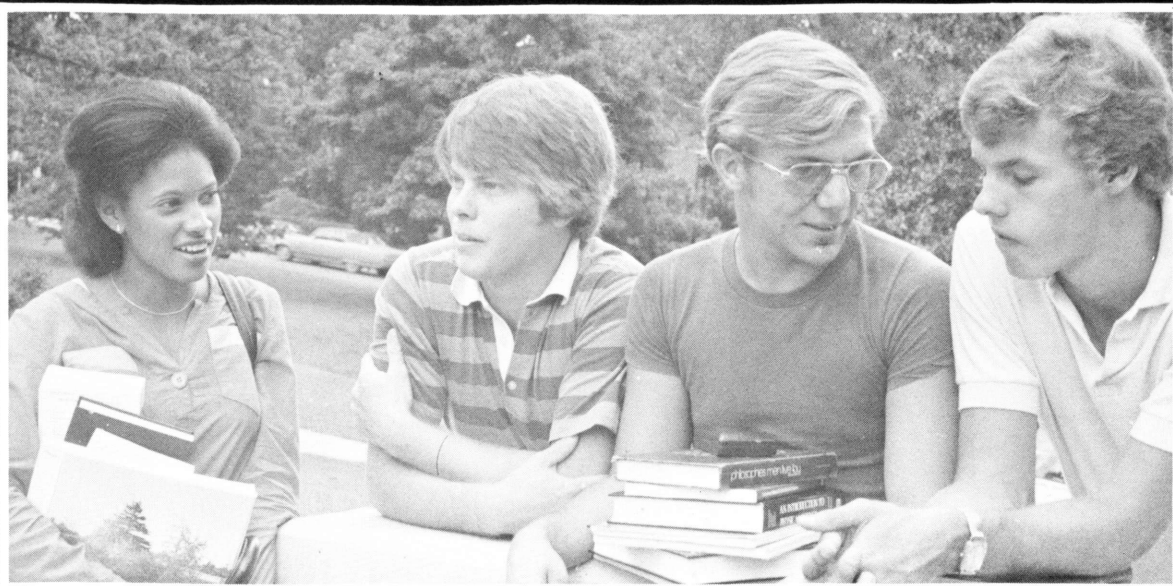

We are part of a cycle.
Round and round she goes.
And where she stops ...?
But she never stops.
Not for anything.
Not for some extra time to spend with a friend.
Not for the chance to think about your heartache.
Not to let you enjoy
some peace and quiet,
or the sound of
nature's music.

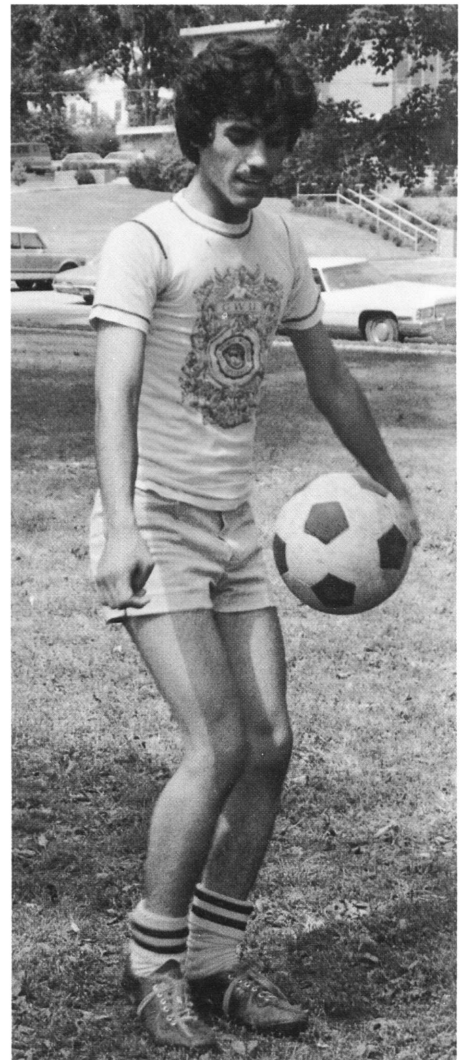

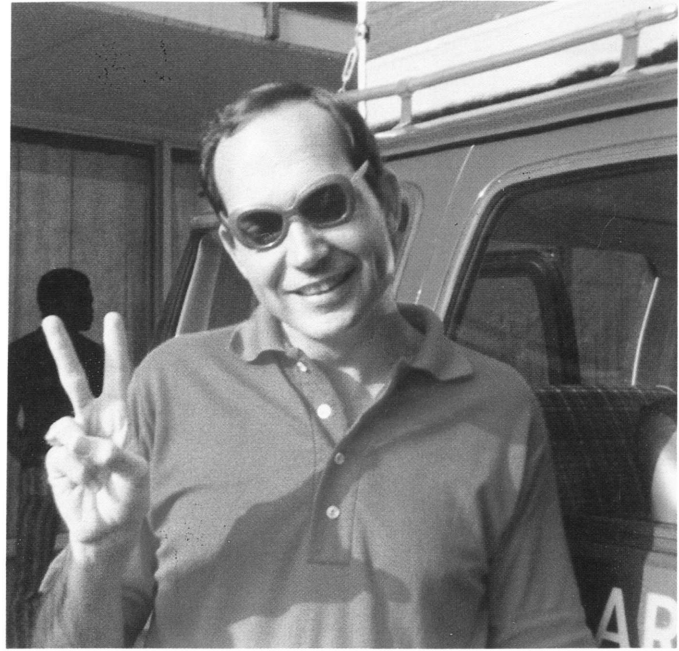

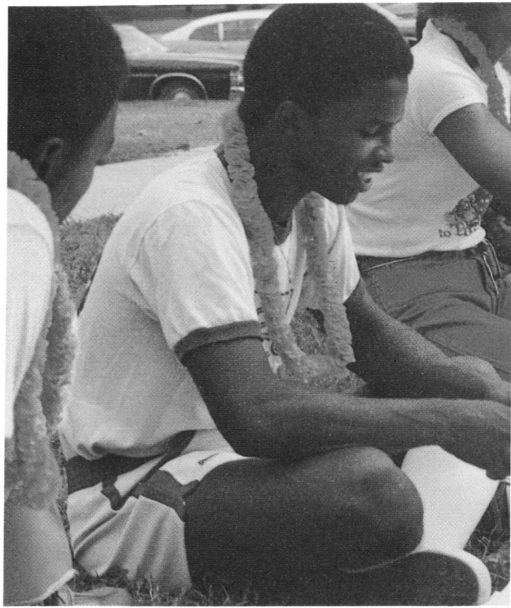

Tim Dempsey

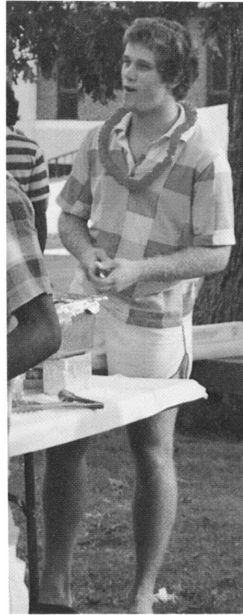

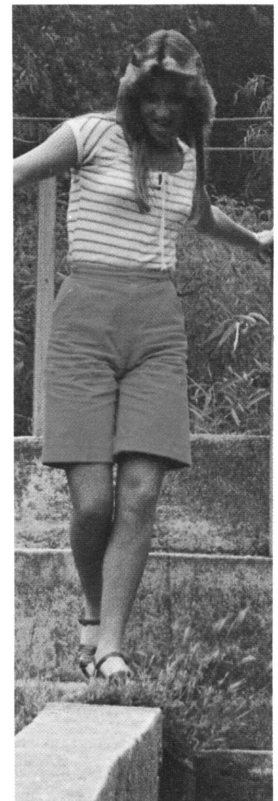

Look at the world and listen.
Take what is offered and use it.
Search for your truth and believe.

Look . . .
Smiles are the Sunshine
Of people.

Listen . . .
Laughter is the Music
Of people.

Feel . . .
Love is the Understanding
Of people.

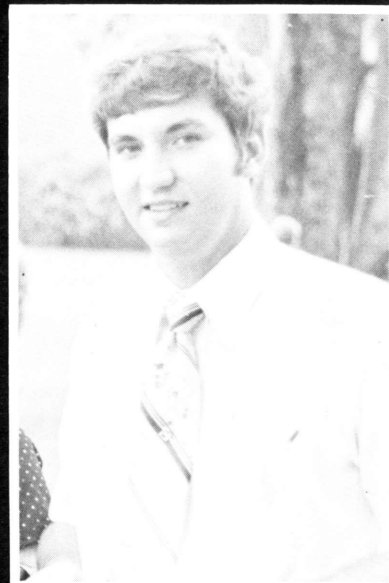

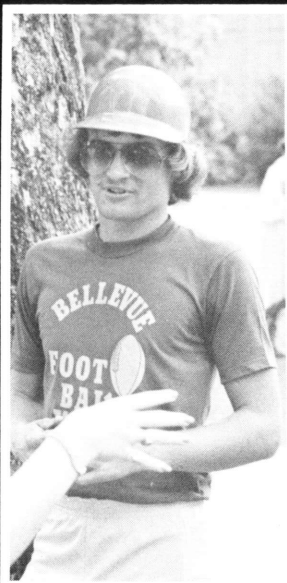

Emily Barlar

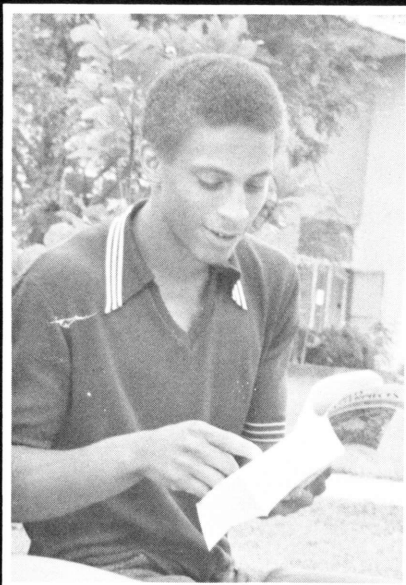

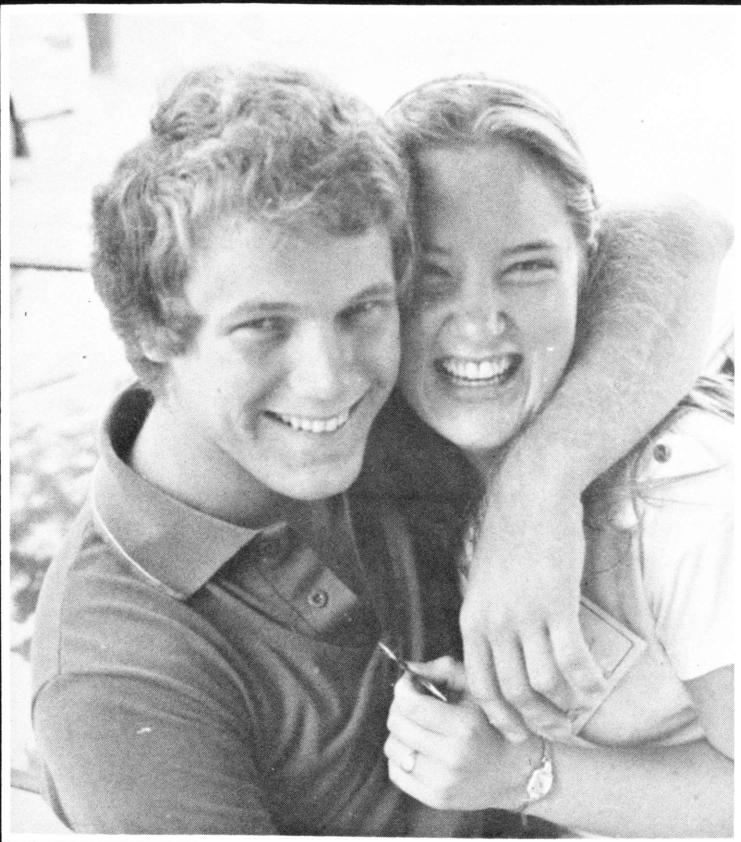

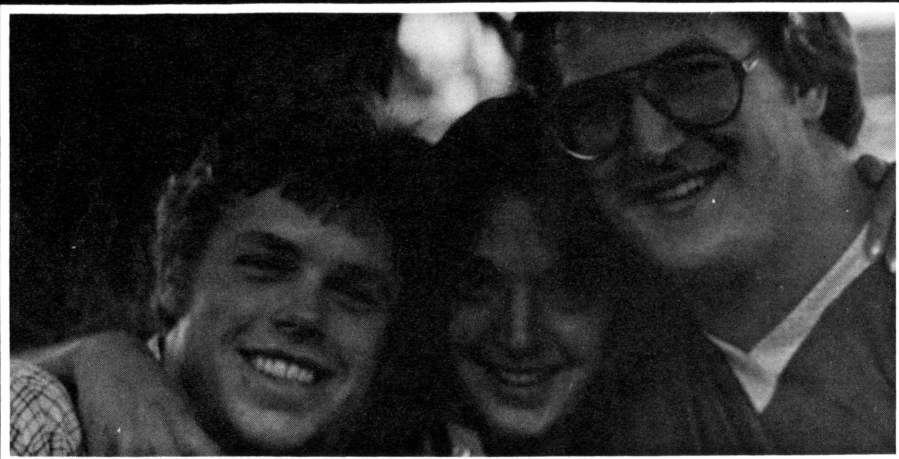

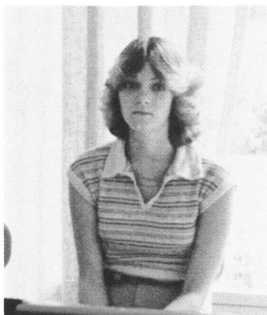

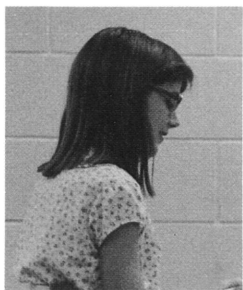

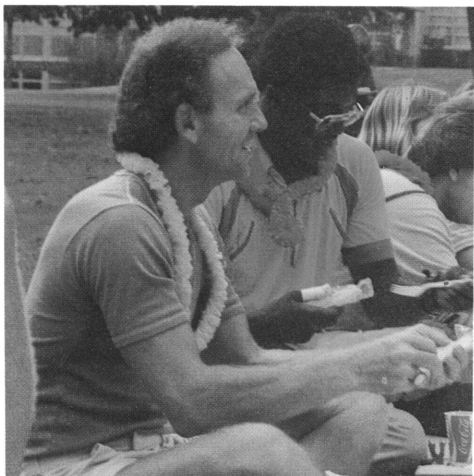

A quick look at the faces of students reveals all the emotions — laughter . . . pain . . . concentration . . . sadness . . . joy. All of these combine to illustrate the personalities of Martin, which blend to form the beautiful noise.

Lucy Gebhart

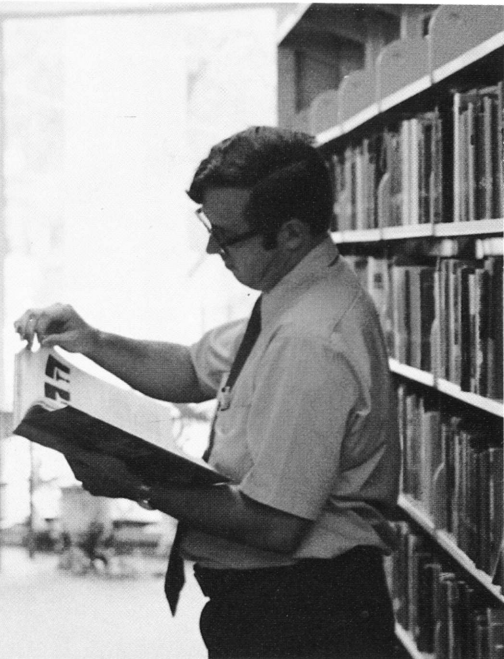

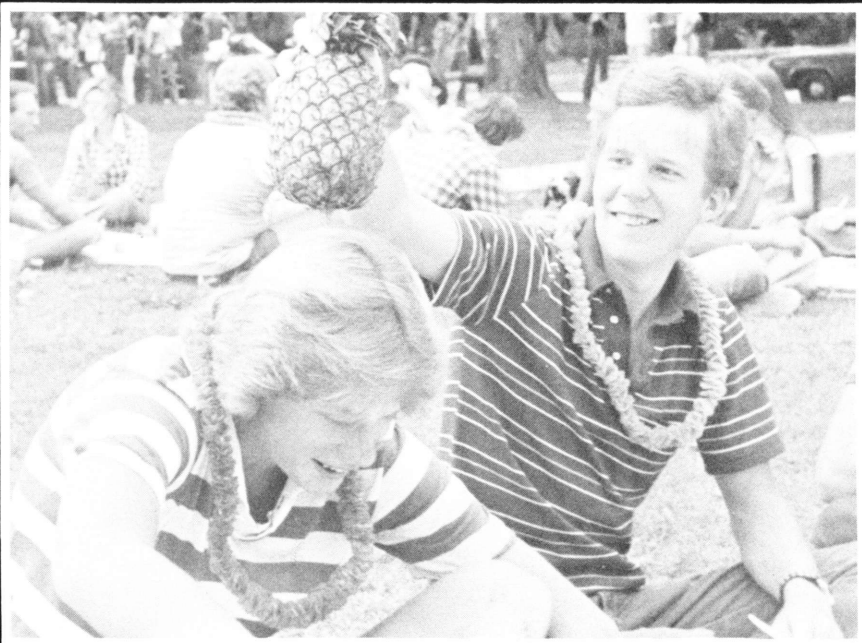

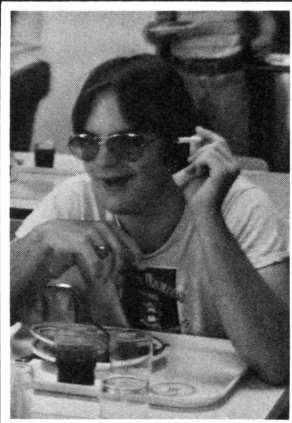

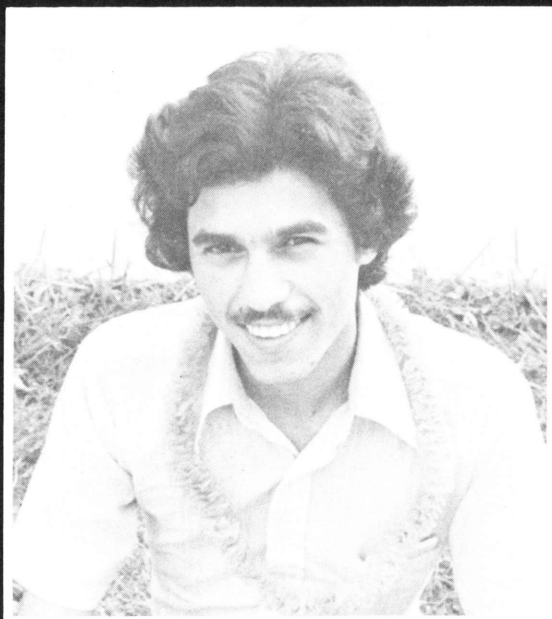

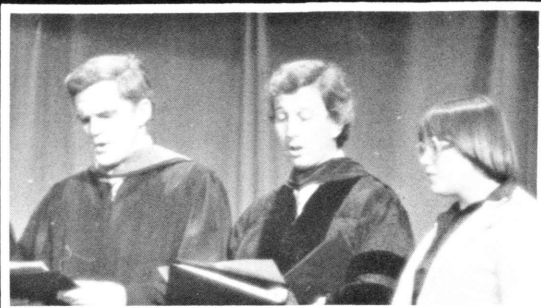

The intense companionship that exists at Martin enables one to hear over and above the everyday sounds of confusion. Martin is a home of friendship.

Tim Dempsey

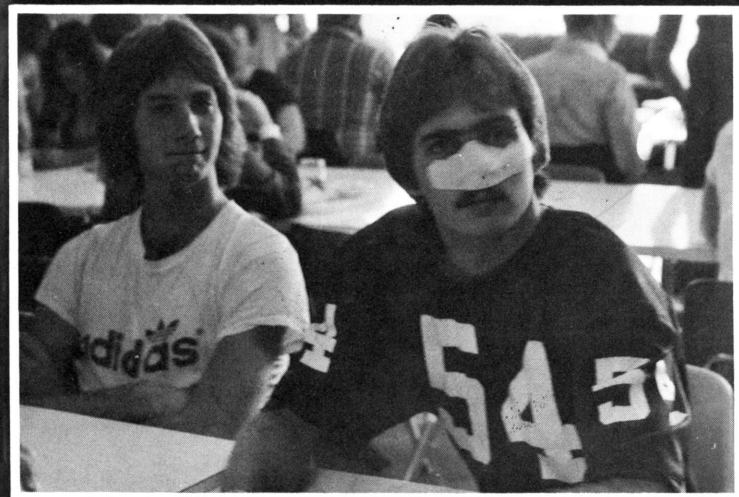

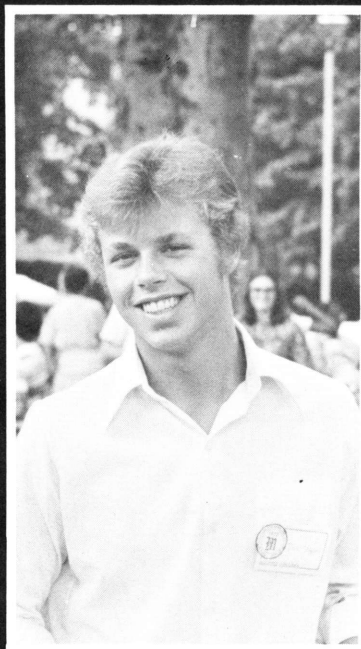

The biggest challenge for any human being is to use his time wisely in presenting his part of the music of life. He can do this through his actions. In studying, he strives to learn so he can find more meaning in his life. Through play he releases his tensions and is able to be carefree. Being with friends builds character and enables him to express his personality. Together, these and other actions express who a person is and the music he makes.

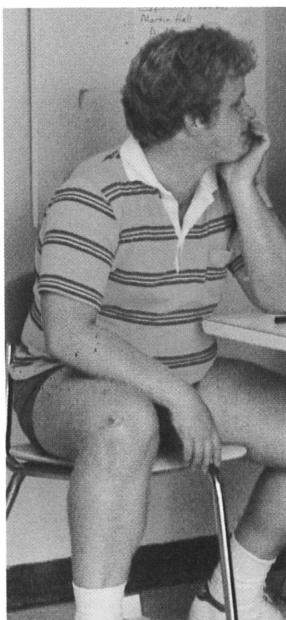

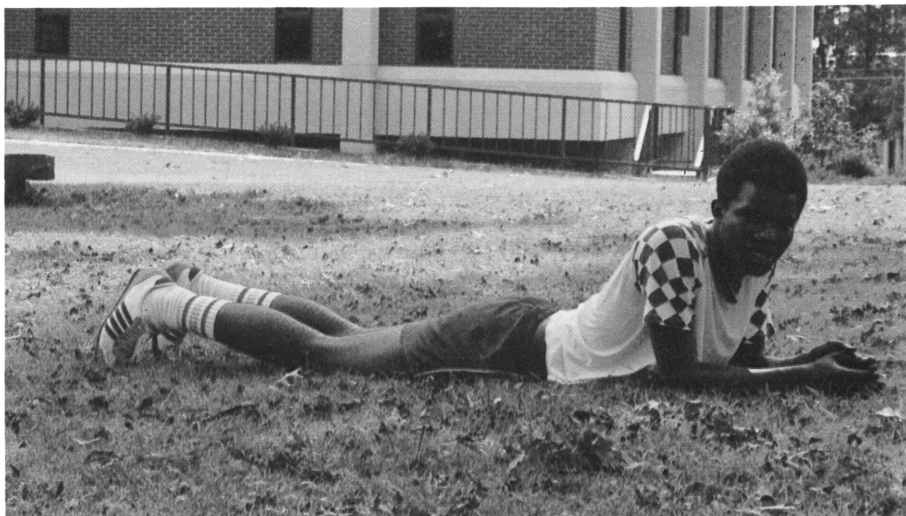

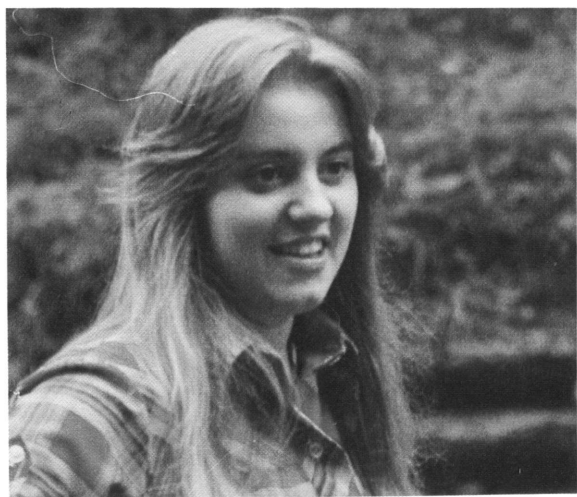

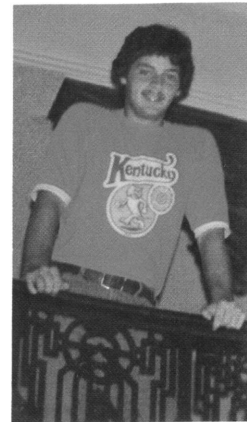

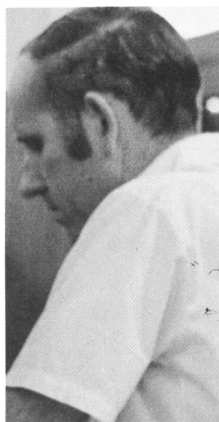

Lucy Gebhart

Martin — the cycle ranges from beautiful noise to awful melody, with one every bit as important as the other. All are sounds of learning life.

Tim Dempsey

BOO-OUT

For ten years, the Halloween Boo-Out has been a traditional presentation of the Student Christian Association for Giles County underprivileged children. One evening again last fall, shrieks and gasps rang out over the campus as the SCA haunted house satisfied the children's love of the spirit of Halloween. Meanwhile, various clubs had set up booths inside the gymnasium with refreshments and games to entertain the guests. It was an evening of fearsome fun for both youngsters and students.

OPEN DORMS

This social event of the holiday season sees the doors of Criswell and Upperman Hall open to members of the opposite sex to be explored at their leisure. A long-standing tradition here on campus, this night of dormitory open house allows students to check into how the other half lives as well as celebrate the Christmas season.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

A traditional holiday function of the Student Christian Association, the Christmas party is our effort to share the joy of the birth of our Savior with children who might otherwise not have as merry a Christmas. Martin students give freely of their time and purchase gifts for these children, receiving nothing in return but the love these young people have to offer and the joy of being involved.

CONCERT SERIES

Martin College's concert series was named in 1978 in honor of the late Mrs. Della Clayton Lee, a long-time friend of Martin College through her service on the Board of Trustees and as a patron of the arts. The series, created nine years ago as a means of cultural appreciation for the campus and community, is presented mostly at Martin Hall Auditorium. This year, the quality of the performances was excellent, being so varied as to include presentations by the Blair String Quartet, the Blair Woodwind Quintet, the Peabody Medieval Ensemble, pianist Daphne Nicar, the Peabody-Vanderbilt Band, and the Giles County Community Chorus, as well as our own Martin College Christmas and spring choral concerts and the spring drama production.

DEDICATION

Della Clayton Lee was a kind and gentle Christian lady who for thirty-eight years served untiringly as a Martin College trustee. An energetic patron of the fine arts, she was herself an accomplished pianist and provided the music at many college functions. She loved the beautiful, and her life exemplified beauty in her unselfish service to others.

It is with great pride, respect, and love that the Editors and Staff dedicate the 1979 Martinaire to Della Clayton Lee.
